

Saint Elizabeth Community

Where RI seniors come first

CNA Training Classes

Informational meetings for classes starting December 4, 2018 (day class) will be held on

Thursday, November 8, 2018 at 2:00 pm

Monday, November 12, 2018 at 6:00 pm

Classes will be held

Saint Elizabeth Home
One Saint Elizabeth Way
East Greenwich, RI

Contact

Liz Stringer, CNA Class Instructor at (401) 471-6060 or at lstringer@stelizabethcommunity.org

Training courses to prepare individuals to become Certified Nursing Assistants (CNA). CNA's are the primary caregivers to the elderly and individuals with chronic illness who reside in our nursing homes. They are responsible for assisting with personal care, feeding, transporting, and documenting changes in the residents' conditions. These courses are offered periodically throughout the year.

The 10-12 week course consists of classroom work and clinical experience. Course instructors work with students as mentors and tutors to prepare them for the state certification exam. This training course is an excellent opportunity for individuals to gain the confidence and skills they need to begin a career in the health care field. Many of the CNA's currently employed throughout Saint Elizabeth Community began as trainees through this program.